Great Animal Picture Coming to the Saenger

While in Sarasota, Fla., I saw "Cougar Country," the picture starting at the Saenger Theater Thursday—and I assure you it's great.

It has the classic touch of the late Walt Disney, whose documentaries drove home the point that animals have as much trouble rearing their young as humans do. What Disney capitalized on was the fact that all animal stories are true—and while Hollywood was starving to death on weird films dealing with social issues, some real but many phonies, Disney promoted his true animal stories into a fortune.

"Cougar Country" is not only superb entertainment but educational also, in that it shows how much trouble animal parents go through in training their young to fend for themselves in an eat-'em-alive wilderness.

High point of the picture is when last year's cougar kitten is driven off by his mother because she now has a new litter. In her absence he defends the new litter from an intruder, but of gratitude Mrs. Cougar has none—and she runs her year-old son out of her part of the wilderness. You can even fancy her telling him: "This hurts me more than it does you."

But it's a human-like action, warning the youngster he has to get out and make a living—entirely on his own.

And so he does, finally meeting a young lady cougar—and, as the fairy tale goes, they lived happily ever after.

The best recommendation is one that comes from an eye witness—and this show I have seen and enjoyed.

Temperatures on Way Up in Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Temperatures in Arkansas are on the way up.

A warming trend was expected to begin today and continue through Thursday. The high pressure system that produced clear, cold weather in the state Tuesday and Tuesday night was centered over West Tennessee this morning and was drifting slowly eastward.

Highs Tuesday ranged from 29 at several points in the northern portion of the state to 39 at Texarkana.

Highs today were forecast near 40 in the northeast to near 50 in the southwest. Highs Thursday should be in the mid 50s to mid 60s.

Overnight lows were in the teens and 20s but lows tonight should be in the mid 30s to low 40s. No precipitation was recorded in the state during the 24-hour period ended at 6 a.m. and none is forecast through Thursday.

Lows Tuesday night include 21 at Fayetteville, 15 at Harrison, 16 at Jonesboro, 20 at Pine Bluff, 25 at Texarkana, 17 at El Dorado, 14 at Memphis, 19 at Little Rock and 27 at Fort Smith.

GOPs Having Own Struggle for Power

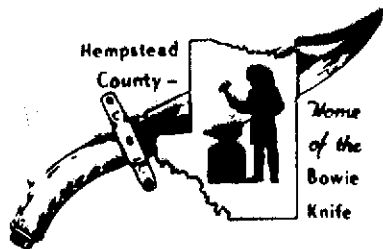

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the Democratic intraparty fight over, House Republicans braced today for their own moderate-conservative leadership battle.

The struggle came over the No. 3 GOP leadership spot as the conservative bloc mounted a drive to replace Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois with Rep. Samuel I. Devine of Ohio as chairman of the House Republican Conference.

Their head-to-head race came as the 180 Republicans elected to the 92nd Congress caucused to name leaders, adopt rules and consider a report on seniority before Congress convenes Thursday.

House Democrats settled their only serious leadership battle, electing Hale Boggs as majority leader over Morris Udall.

Chicken Processing Plant Under Construction

Construction has started on Hope Foods, Inc., a poultry processing plant, and completion and production is expected by May 1, 1971, it was announced by Tom Duncan, president of the corporation.

The new industry, located five miles north of Hope in the Proving Ground Industrial area, will process commercial layers and will debone and can fowl. The very latest equipment will be installed in the plant's main building which covers 24,000 square feet. This will enable the processing of 24,000 hens per day at full capacity.

The locally owned and operated corporation will not only furnish employment to 75 persons but will also provide a market for commercial layers within a 75 mile radius of Hope, Mr. Duncan said.

Liberal Move in House to Change Leadership Shattered by Seniors

Albert, Boggs Keep Grip on House Power

By JIM ADAMS

WASHINGTON (AP) — After promoting Carl Albert and Hale Boggs up the chain of command to speaker and majority leader, Democrats turned today to attacks against seniority's grip on House power.

The minimum seniority reform package before the House Democratic Caucus today would require a band of 21 elderly and powerful House committee chairmen to give up some of their subcommittee chairmanships to younger members.

But a group of young House liberals pressed for broader reform to oust 11 of the present chairmen in 1973 by barring the power seats to anyone who is over 70 or who has been a chairman more than eight years.

There was also a move afoot to elect Democratic whips from now on, rather than appoint them, since they traditionally move up to majority leader and then to speaker.

As Democrats moved to wrap up a two-day caucus, House Republicans began theirs. On the GOP agenda were seniority reform and a conservative bloc effort to replace Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois with Rep.

WASHINGTON (AP) — When the votes had been counted and Hale Boggs of Louisiana had been elected House Democratic leader, Rep. Morris K. "Mo" Udall, his chief opponent, turned the button on his lapel upside down.

It had said "Mo." Now it said "OW."

Udall laughed, but his defeat had to hurt. Hopes of younger, more liberal members for a dramatic change in the image of the House leadership were shattered by Boggs' victory.

Before Tuesday's vote it appeared possible they might get their first foothold on the leadership ladder, but in the end it was the same old coalition of Southerners, big-city regulars and senior members who triumphed.

Boggs, 56, who has served 28 years in the House and was just a rung below the majority leadership as Democratic whip, not only won over four opponents, but won big.

He got 140 votes, 12 more than he needed, and he got them on the second ballot, when everyone predicted it would take four or five ballots to produce a winner.

Udall, of Arizona, finished with 88 votes and Rep. B.F. Sisk of California was a distant third with 17. Reps. Wayne L. Hays of Ohio and James G. O'Hara of Michigan dropped out after the first ballot, on which Hays got 28 votes and O'Hara 25.

The outcome demonstrated an old failing of liberals in Congress.

The Man Who Doesn't Like His Job Is a Very Pitiful Figure

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the most pitiful figures of our times is the man who doesn't like his job—and there are millions who don't.

They would like to launch a fresh career but feel they can't. They are up to their gluteal maximum in the responsibilities of raising a family, paying off a mortgage, and keeping an adequate supply of gin stored under the kitchen sink.

Is there nothing they can do except go on living a life of noisy desperation? Yes, there is. If they are bored with their present job, they can obtain relief by moonlighting on another job which will enable them to express themselves more fully.

Here are a few moonlight jobs that one might find appealing:

Piano tuner in an Arabian harem.

Ghost write for Harold Stassen's 1972 political comeback.

Beanbag pitcher for the Dallas Cowboys.

Tickettaker for the first presentation in Keokuk, Iowa, of an opera sung in Chinese.

Night bodyguard for Mae West.

A door-to-door brassiere salesman.

Valet to a rich midget.

The backdoor watcher at Ft. Knox.

Food taster at Maxim's in Paris.

Consultant for Dr. Joyce Brothers during the week and, on weekends, for Margaret Mead.

Toupee cataloguer for Georgie Jessel, Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra.

Wine steward for Dean Martin.

Masseur for Raquel Welch.

English Teacher for Buddy Hackett.

Cultural czar of Las Vegas.

Speech instructor for the invisible man—Howard Hughes.

Yes, if you seek escape from the tedium of your present breadwinning role, you can't do better than to turn to a more glamorous moonlight job. All you have to do is pick the right one.

Kidnaped Envoy to Get Bonus

LONDON (AP) — James Cross, the British trade commissioner who was held by Palestinian terrorist kidnapers for 60 days, is going to get a bonus from the Foreign Office.

A spokesman said Thursday the payment would be "something under 10,000 pounds," or $24,000.

It is intended to compensate the 49-year-old official for the mental and physical hardship he suffered, and partly make up for cash offers by newspapers for his personal account of what happened. Under civil service rules, such offers cannot be accepted.

Testimony in F111 Case Continues

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — L.M. Smith, acting manager of stress analysis and weights for General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex., testified in U.S. District Court here Tuesday that parts made for the F111 swing wing airplane by Selb Manufacturing Co. of Walnut Ridge received some of the greatest stresses on the plane.

Smith's testimony came in the second day of the trial of James L. Townley of Hurst, Tex., a former quality assurance superintendent for General Dynamics. Townley is one of seven charged with conspiring to conceal defective parts made by Selb for the F111. He is the first of the defendants to be brought to trial.

The government contends that Selb and two of its affiliated plants, Blade Manufacturing Co. of Rector and Aircraft Engineering Corp. of Pocahontas, used welds in manufacturing parts for the aircraft that did not meet specifications. The indictments allege that General Dynamics inspectors helped conceal information that the parts were defective.

Selb produced parts for the F111 for three years before its contract was cancelled in 1969.

Rum Dessert for Teetotaler

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox, a teetotaler, didn't learn the dessert was a rum parfait until he had eaten every bit.

"It tasted sort of spoiled, like it had been frozen, thawed out, and then frozen again," Maddox told a crowd attending the Georgia dairy farmers' 20th annual banquet, where the dessert was served Tuesday night.

Arab Group Denies Policy Abandonment

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The semiofficial Egyptian newspaper Al Ahran said today Palestinian guerrillas had dropped opposition to a peaceful settlement of the Arab-Israeli conflict, but a spokesman for one major commando group denied it had done so.

A spokesman for the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine said in Beirut, Lebanon, that the PFLP "continues to oppose all efforts for a settlement and continues to believe that the only way to liberate Palestine is through armed struggle."

The spokesman made clear, however, that he was speaking only for the front and not for other guerrilla groups.

Al Ahran said the central committee of the Palestine guerrilla organization at a meeting in Amman adopted a resolution expressing "unanimous support for any political moves by Arab states to liquidate the consequences of the June 1967 aggression."

The resolution was endorsed by the radical, militant Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine as well as the more moderate Al Fatah organization, largest of the guerrilla groups.

Previously the Palestinians had vehemently denounced all Arab participation in peacemaking efforts as treason to the Palestinian cause.

The resolution was adopted "in the course of an over-all reconsideration of the circumstances of the Palestinian movement," Al Ahran said.

The guerrillas have been demanding the establishment of "a secular democratic state" to replace Israel and rejected the November 1967 U.N. Security Council resolution as a basis for settlement. But today Yasir Arafat, head of Al Fatah and the combined organization, was quoted by Al Ahran as saying:

"Egypt's resolute stand on the implementation of the November resolution leaves no room for doubt about its sincerity and determination on the path of struggle."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard B. Russell, a commanding figure in the Senate for four decades, was listed in very critical condition today, weakening fast in a six-week battle against a respiratory infection.

Doctors administered oxygen to Russell Tuesday after he had difficulty breathing.

The condition of Russell, dean of the Senate and its president pro tempore, had been described as serious since he entered Walter Reed Army Medical Center Dec. 8. This was changed to critical after his setback Tuesday morning and to very critical several hours later.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas House turned aside attempts to alter Gov. Dale Bumpers' governmental reorganization plan Tuesday by margins that indicated the bill might pass the chamber easily.

Four amendments were offered, but each was beaten by an overwhelming margin when the sponsors brought up the bill for consideration. The sponsors expected a final vote on the plan today.

Earlier Tuesday, the House State Agencies Committee voted 14-1 to recommend passage of the bill, which Bumpers considers the "most vital" part of his legislative program.

Rep. Charles R. Moore of Luxora sought to amend the bill to prohibit the reorganization.

Vietnamese Claim 119 Enemy Killed

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese forces today reported 119 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed in battles at three points in Cambodia.

A spokesman said 11 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 23 wounded in the three actions Tuesday and today. One battle was south of the Pich Nil pass, on Route 4, Phnom Penh's highway to the sea. Cambodian forces were reported locked in sharp fighting at the northern entrance to the pass today.

Associated Press photographer Ghislain Belloret reported from Highway 4 that the North Vietnamese began firing from bunkers as Cambodian infantrymen tried to clear their flanks before renewing the assault on Pich Nil, 60 miles southwest of the capital and where the road enters the Elephant Mountains. They killed five Cambodians and wounded 40.

For the third day, U.S. Cobra helicopter gunships attacked suspected North Vietnamese and Viet Cong positions. Cambodian mortars, cannon and machine guns kept up a steady barrage, while the Communist forces replied with small arms fire so as not to reveal the positions of their fortifications on the hillsides.

More than 1,000 South Vietnamese marines landed by helicopter nine miles southwest of the pass were reported to have met heavy resistance Tuesday as they attempted to push north.

U.S. Giving Air Support in Cambodia

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today American air power will be employed throughout Indochina and contended this falls within Congressional authorization.

"As long as I am serving in this job, we will continue to use airpower to supplement the South Vietnamese forces in Cambodia," Laird declared.

"We have this authority spelled out in congressional authorization."

Questioned at length, during a news conference, on the American air role in the current Cambodian-South Vietnamese drive to reopen Phnom Penh's lifeline to the sea, Laird said he didn't want to get into the semantics of the problem.

He said U.S. air support has been used all along in Cambodia since the Cambodian incursion by U.S. and South Vietnamese forces in June and that it will be continued.

The dispatch of American helicopters to aid the allied offensive in Cambodia comes six and a half months after President Nixon declared "no U.S. air or logistics support" would be used to aid South Vietnamese fighting in Cambodia.

Now, however, U.S. helicopters operating for the first time from 7th Fleet ships off the Cambodian coast have been providing firepower and logistics support—ferrying supplies and aiding in communications—for the Cambodian-South Vietnamese force battling to reopen Phnom Penh's key highway to the sea.

In news briefings this week, Jerry W. Friedheim, the Defense Department's deputy assistant secretary for public affairs, described these efforts as "air combat and logistic activities" and said they represent no change in administration policy.

These operations, he explained, "fall in the overall context of our interdiction effort to deal in Cambodia with enemy personnel, bases and supplies which might ultimately endanger the lives and safety of U.S. personnel inside South Vietnam, as we continue the Vietnamization program and the redeployment of American forces."

Friedheim was asked in an interview how the American effort now under way falls within Nixon's June 30 statement that no air or logistics support would be provided the South Vietnamese in Cambodia.

Friedheim replied it is not up to him to interpret the President.

Nixon, in a nationwide television address barring U.S. ground personnel and military advisers from Cambodia, said:

"We will conduct—with the approval of the Cambodian government—air interdiction missions against the enemy efforts to move supplies and personnel through Cambodia towards South Vietnam and to re-establish base areas relevant to the war in South Vietnam."

The South Vietnamese, Nixon continued, would remain ready to block re-establishment of the enemy's border sanctuaries cleaned out in May and June by U.S. and South Vietnamese troops.

"Most of these operations will be launched from within South Vietnam," Nixon said. "There will be no U.S. air or logistics support."

Since June, there have been many indications that the "air interdiction" Nixon mentioned has been defined broadly to include air attacks by U.S. planes and helicopters on enemy positions and concentrations, thus helping the Cambodians in their battles with the North Vietnamese.

Nixon Halts Florida Canal Work

By JAMES PHILLIPS Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, hoping to save a wild, meandering river noted for its unique semitropical grandeur, has ordered the Corps of Engineers to abandon construction of a shipping canal across Florida.

Conservationists lauded Nixon's action, but vowed to continue a legal battle to establish a court precedent blocking other Corps projects they consider damaging to the environment. In making the announcement Tuesday, Nixon noted destruction already done to the Oklawaha River. But, he said, "The step I have taken today will prevent a past mistake from causing permanent damage."

About 26 miles of the 107-mile waterway already have been gouged out of the hardwood-forested Oklawaha Valley. The canal is designed to link Mayport on the Atlantic with Yankton on the Gulf of Mexico and cut about 600 miles from shipping routes around the tip of Florida.

Calling the river "a uniquely beautiful, semitropical stream ... which would be destroyed by construction of the canal," Nixon noted the canal was conceived and designed to reduce shipping costs.

"The destruction of natural, ecological values was not counted as a cost, nor was a credit allowed for actions preserving the environment," Nixon added.

A preliminary injunction halting most work on the canal was issued last week by the U.S. district court in Washington, pending the outcome of a study on the ecological impact of the canal. The court action was initiated by the Environmental Defense Fund and Florida Defenders of the Environment.

William Partington, president of the Florida group, said the suit will be pursued to a final court decision in hopes of establishing a landmark legal precedent. "We want to eliminate the necessity of these rear-guard actions in the future," he said.

About $50 million of the estimated $180-million construction cost already has been spent on the 26-mile completed section of the waterway.

Opposition to the canal hardened following construction of the Rodman Dam on the river in 1968. Logs floated to the surface in endless numbers, aquatic weeds crowded the water, and hardwood trees left standing in the water began dying.

The cries of conservationists prompted former Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel to ask the Army for a 15-month moratorium on construction to learn the full impact on the environment.

Nixon said he ordered the Army and Council on Environmental Quality to plan ways of restoring the natural beauty of the region where construction already had begun.

Nixon's action in stopping the canal followed by several months a compromise worked out by U.S. and Florida authorities changing the site of a proposed jetport west of Miami.

Discusses Poultry

Bill S. Watson, General Manager of the Cornbelt Poultry Operations, was the guest speaker at Tuesday's Kiwanis Club meeting. Kiwanian Jim McKenzie arranged the program and introduced the speaker.

Mr. Watson discussed the poultry industry and its place in the economy of Southwest Arkansas. Before the meeting he had passed out cards to each member present, asking that anyone having a question dealing with the poultry industry write out his question and give it to him. Answers to some of the questions submitted comprised the major portion of Mr. Watson's talk.

Replying to some of the questions, Mr. Watson stated that Cornbelt Hatcheries or Cornbelt Industries is a totally owned subsidiary of the Kroger Company. Key personnel other than Mr. Watson are Wayne Russell, General Production Manager, Tom Waters, Broiler Production Manager, Lloyd Hendrix, Laying Production Manager, Charles Carey, Comptroller, John Treat, Nutrition and Technical Adviser, and Hendrix Spraggins, in charge of Purchasing. Mr. Watson named four major poultry operations in this immediate area, Montaire, Tyson, Koen Farms, and his own firm, Cornbelt. He sees a very bright future for this area. Plans already being implemented and plans for the immediate future will bring changes for the better in the area economy, not only from direct poultry operations but in supporting endeavors. "There will be tremendous opportunities in Agriculture in this area," said Mr. Watson.

Guests at Tuesday's meeting were Vincent W. Foster, C. R. "Dick" Moore, Dean Black, David Waddle and Key Clubbers, Tommy Miller and Lynn Norton.

A&M Merger With U of A Is Approved

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Senate joined the House Tuesday in approving a bill to authorize the merger of Arkansas A&M College at Monticello with the University of Arkansas.

The 31-0 vote by the Senate completed legislative action on the bill, which passed the House 95-0 last week. The measure now goes to Gov. Dale Bumpers for his signature. The governor has taken no position on the merger.

In the House, backers of a plan favored by U.S. Rep. Bill Alexander to redraw the state's congressional districts sought a vote on the bill, but the House adjourned without taking action after a 25-minute filibuster by Rep. Paul Henry of Batesville.

Henry has introduced an identical redistricting bill, except that the Alexander-backed version would transfer Henry's home county of Independence from Rep. Wilbur D. Mills' 2nd District to Alexander's 1st District. The Henry plan would move Arkansas County, rather than Independence, from the 2nd to the 1st District.

The merger bill, the first major piece of legislation to clear both houses, would make A&M a part of the University of Arkansas next July 1.

Supporters' main argument was that university status was necessary before the Society of American Foresters could consider accrediting the college's forestry school, the only one in the state.

The A&M board would be kept intact, but the school's budget would be covered by the appropriation for the U of A. A&M would have the same status as the University of Arkansas at Little Rock, which was Little Rock University until merged in 1969 with the U of A.

Dr. Claude Babin, A&M president, had told the Senate Education Committee earlier that salaries of A&M professors are as high as those at the U of A in identical positions, but he said adjustments would have to be made to raise to a level comparable with the U of A the salaries of A&M professors who have no counterpart position at the university.

Congressional redistricting is a chore faced by the legislature to reflect population shifts shown in the 1970 census. Under both proposals introduced in the legislature, counties would be taken from the 2nd and 3rd Districts, which gained population in the census, and be given to the 1st and 5th Districts.

Lost Hunter Survives 54 Days in Wilds

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (AP) — Lost for 54 days, Robert Bailey ate raw meat and buried himself in snow one night to keep from freezing in a high mountain wilderness.

He made it back. His deer-hunting companion didn't.

"God took real good care of me," Bailey said Tuesday night. The 28-year-old hunter told from a hospital bed of trekking some 30 miles in 25 days across rugged mountain ranges covered with waist-deep snow.

The ordeal that began Nov. 27 ended Tuesday when Bailey reached a guest ranch on Big Lost River, about 15 miles northeast of Sun Valley.

"Bailey was in extremely good condition for what he had been through," said Danny Danielson, a helicopter pilot who picked up the survivor at the ranch and flew him to Sun Valley.

Bailey's hunting partner, Joe Conquest, 34, of Jerome, Idaho, later was found dead where the two became stranded by a snowstorm in an area known as Copper Basin, about 30 miles east of the ranch.

"He was in the car," said Danielson. "It was right off the side of the road ... only the roof was showing above the snow."

Shortly after they were stranded, Bailey and Conquest shot a deer and survived on raw venison until the day after Christmas.

"Then I told Joe I was going for help. Joe's feet were frozen and so swollen that he couldn't get his boots back on. He had plenty of meat when I left him." Bailey left the trapped vehicle on Dec. 26, wearing leather boots, insulated socks, heavy pants and coat.

The search for the two began a few days after they left on their hunting trip and continued until Dec. 24, when officials gave up hope of finding them alive.

A doctor at Sun Valley hospital said Bailey, a television technician from Wendell, Idaho, had "some minor frostbite, but otherwise he's as healthy as I am."

Retired Officer Was Highly Decorated

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A coast guard admiral, retired for a "serious error in judgment" in allowing Soviets to capture a defecting Lithuanian seaman, had received a high decoration for "sound judgment" and "dynamic leadership" a few months earlier.

It was learned that Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe, who criticized Rear Adm. William B. Ellis publicly Dec. 21, had signed a glowing Legion of Merit citation received by Ellis Sept. 18.

Ellis, 56, was praised in the citation for exceptionally meritorious conduct as commander of the 1st Coast Guard District during the previous two years.

Between "sound judgment" and a "serious error in judgment," President Nixon and public opinion were aroused by disclosure that Lithuanian seaman Simanos Kudirka had been beaten and dragged by Russian sailors from a U.S. Coast Guard cutter to a Soviet ship off Martha's Vineyard, Mass., Nov. 23. After a Coast Guard inquiry, it was announced that Ellis and his chief of staff, Capt. Fletcher W. Brown, would get letters of reprimand and be retired from the service.

Volpe, whose department controls the Coast Guard, said of Ellis and Brown: "There's no doubt that both of these officers now appreciate fully their serious error of judgment in this case."

But in the Legion of Merit citation Volpe signed a few months earlier, he said Ellis had "distinguished himself by his dynamic leadership, keen foresight and unhesitating assumption of a broad spectrum of demanding responsibilities."

The citation also was studded with tributes to Ellis' "outstanding initiative, sound judgment and unwavering devotion to duty."

Asked who recommended the Legion of Merit for Ellis, a Coast Guard spokesman would say only, "It was somebody senior to him."

Their strategy was to unite behind whichever made it into the final round.

Boggs, who was claiming 125 to 130 votes on the first ballot, also had an inflated count, but he came closer than the rest and his victory was certain after the first ballot when Udall

Hays provided the winning push for Boggs by withdrawing and endorsing him.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

SHE WISHES SHE HAD READ IT SOONER

Dear Helen:

I only wish I had read your "Danger Signals" sooner so that I might have recognized them in the man I later married—and spent years wishing I hadn't.

Finally, I recognized the games he played. When I got so good at them he couldn't win any more, he sued for divorce on grounds of cruelty, and the custody battle for the children was long and bitter. I finally won.

The point of my story: Look more closely at the person you are going to marry. His bad points to get worse, never better, and often what you think are good points turn out bad when you are no longer blindly in love. Make lists, examine faults, compare him with your "ideal."

My second marriage is wonderfully happy. The secret? If you really want to know, say so, and I'll let you in on our formula.

—B.J.

Dear B.:

Of course we want to know. Don't be so cagey. Give! —H.

Dear Helen:

There is this girl who will soon be 18. She has been treated inhumanly by her folks. While the other kids got almost everything she wasn't even given lunch money for school. She had so few clothes she had to drop out in her senior year, even though she had good grades. They beat her black and blue, shamed her in front of others and now won't let her get a job because she must stay home and babysit.

Can she leave when she is 18? Or can her parents force her to stay and be their slave? —SOMEONE WHO'S BUGGED

Dear Bugged:

If things are as bad as they appear, the girl should get a job and leave home. In your state, her parents can't force her to remain after she reaches 18.

Perhaps you can help by finding her an apartment and suitable work. —H.

Dear Helen:

In a recent column, an obnoxious little prig whined that two of his schoolmates had been arrested for smoking marijuana. He went out of his way to attack law and order as follows:

"One kid had never tried pot before, and the other got the stuff from a friend who stole it from home. His folks pass it around every time they have a party, and you'd be surprised who comes to their parties—people pretty high in the police department and county court."

Any parent who allows his offspring to think such subversive thoughts, has, I maintain, failed miserably in his duties. I say a decent, right-thinking patriot would long since have taught his child that Responsible Elements deservedly enjoy rights and privileges properly denied the lower orders. (Prohibition, he could point out, clearly illustrated this great truth.)

If, after such wholesome indoctrination, the sniveling little ingrate persisted in his vicious designs, the parent should have confiscated the offensive letter and thrashed the impudent whelp to within an inch of his life, thus teaching him what a heinous crime it is to undermine faith in our Way Of Life.

We obviously have here a horrible example of what the Vice President must have in mind when he denounces the "creeping permissiveness" poisoning our national life. Let us take the good old birch rod to our rebellious brats before our precious heritage of spiritual values goes down the drain! —HARDING REPUBLICAN

Dear H.R.:

The ghost of Jonathan Swift is alive and well and dancing a jig on your typewriter—but I'll bet a lot of my readers don't recognize him. —H.

Medical Team Brings Care To Descendants of "Evangeline"

by Esther E. Anderson, M.D.

Director, March of Dimes Heritable Disease Evaluation Center, Louisiana State University Medical Center

Delivery of medical care is one of the most serious health problems facing our nation today. The great strides being made in medical research are simply not always available to the individuals who need care based on those discoveries. At the present time, application of research is often sporadic and inefficient, sometimes ineffective, and usually costly. In many instances, individuals who require specialized medical services receive little or none until it is too late.

This is especially true in the case of genetic problems, since many hereditary defects are so rarely seen that they are extremely difficult to diagnose. And effective genetic counseling for prospective parents is only possible if an accurate diagnosis can be made and a pattern of inheritance of the disorder can be determined.

In Louisiana the twin problems of gathering research material on genetic disorders and providing care for the families who are afflicted have been combined in a single program. The Heritable Disease Evaluation Center at Louisiana State University, aided by funds from the March of Dimes, is carrying out a unique genealogical study which encompasses both re-

BRINGING MEDICAL CARE TO THE PATIENT. Dr. Esther E. Anderson examines Karen Ann Robin at her home beside Bayou Terrebonne in Lafourche Parish, Louisiana. Karen Ann and other members of her family are afflicted with Friedreich's Ataxia, a hereditary disease. Treatment of the Robins has been combined with genealogical studies which will provide information for genetic counseling of other families with the same disease.

The study concentrates on the Acadians, descendants of the French people who were banished from Canada in the 18th century. The heroine of Longfellow's poem, "Evangeline," was an Acadian girl whose real name was Emmeline Labiche. Although the tale itself was largely fiction, all that was mortal of Evangeline now lies in a churchyard at St. Martinville, La., where her grave is surrounded by oak trees and masses of flowers.

Today there are about 900 - 000 "Cajuns" living in the bayou country of southwestern Louisiana. They form a uniquely self-enclosed population which has been well defined since 1755. Church and family records are readily available. Consanguinity makes it possible to study hereditary defects which are rare in the general population, but which occur more frequently in a closely related group. When such a defect is identified and diagnosed in studying the Cajuns, this information can be made available to other physicians in all parts of the country. This will help them in diagnosing and advising their own patients.

Teams of doctors and medical students participate in the Cajun study, fanning out across the bayou country to sift through old records and visit families of shrimp boat-ers, searching for reliable genealogical and genetic information. All this data will be computerized so that it will be readily available for use in diagnosing and evaluating hereditary disorders.

But what about the individual patient? To be sure, the Cajun study is an engrossing project, but how does it apply to the people with the problem?

Let's take the Martin family as an example. Their son Noel was referred to the Heritable Disease Evaluation Center when he was four months old.

It was found that Noel had trigonocephaly, a recessive hereditary disorder. Our study of the family history revealed that both parents were Acadian and that the marriage was probably consanguineous. What were we able to do with this information? The Martins received counseling regarding the possibilities of future children being affected, and also regarding the chances that their children might transmit this disorder to subsequent generations. This counseling will enable them to decide how to plan their family and what information to provide their children when they are old enough to marry. Meanwhile, Noel will receive the care he needs.

Genetic counseling is an important aspect of the National Foundation-March of Dimes in its nationwide program aimed at prevention and treatment of birth defects.

Another good example of how our two-pronged effort works is the Melancon family. The Melancons have four daughters, but it was Melanie, aged seven, who first came to our attention. We found she was suffering from Legg-Perthes disease, a hereditary bone condition which made it necessary for her to wear a brace on her left leg. Fortunately her case was diagnosed early enough so that treatment will correct the condition, and this lively youngster will soon be able to discard the device and lead a normal life.

Since the disease was recognized as a hereditary condition, examinations of other members of the family were made and multiple cases of a milder form of the same disorder was found. Melanie's sister Marion and her cousin, Tex, are now also receiving therapy which will prevent the potential crippling effects of this defect.

And of course, the information gained from the genealogical study of the Melancon family will be fed into our pool of knowledge on hereditary disorders among the Acadians. So Melanie Melancon, like many other patients, is not just a cute little girl with a problem that can be solved. She is a clue in the never-ending search for ways to prevent birth defects.

The beach crews toiled through the darkness but the 50 boats Standard has working offshore were docked for the night due to thick fog.

The company rushed crews and equipment to Bolinas, 20 miles northwest of here, Tuesday when oil carried out through the Golden Gate and then back to shore made its way into Bolinas Lagoon, a wildlife sanctuary. The crews worked through the night by floodlight, sealing off the lagoon with a boom and gathering in the thick oil with straw.

Students were excused from school at Bolinas to rescue waterfowl from the lagoon entrance north to Point Reyes National Seashore.

The oil also spread south 20 miles along the coast to Pedro Point, near Pacifica. Other main trouble spots were inside the bay near the Presidio, where the 6th Army sent GIs to join the hard hats and volunteers, and on the shore of the Tiburon Peninsula, another bird sanctuary.

Hope Teams Beaten by Texarkana

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer

Last night, the Hope Bobcats were barely beaten by the Texarkana Razorbacks, 70-66, and the B-Bruins earlier lost, 60-44.

This sets the Bobcats record at 11-5, while the B-Bruins are now 4-3.

After the Cats took a quick 4-0 lead on shots by Parker Powell and Lynn Norton, the Hogs began to hit points, mostly on toul shots. With 17 seconds left in the quarter, Powell hit a two pointer for a 33-11, Hope lead, heading into the next period.

Led by John Dudley and Lynn Norton, Hope built up as much as a nine point lead, only to see it be taken away.

Free throws by Norton and David Briggs kept Hope in front for a minute, but later, with the score knotted at 31 all, Dudley sunk a layup with two seconds showing for a 33-31, lead.

Texarkana quickly went ahead in the third quarter on two baskets, but then the teams settled down and traded leads back and fourth until time expired in the third quarter, Hope trailed, 48-46.

Dudley hit the initial two points of the last quarter to tie the game, but seconds later somehow fouled out with only four fouls. Texarkana then took a four point lead the remainder of the game.

Norton hit 21, Powell had 14, and Dudley sacked 13.

In the second game, the B-Bruins fell quickly behind, 11-2, after Tim White hit Hope's only goal for the first three minutes.

Gradually climbing back the Bruins trailed at the end of the period only by one, 13-12.

Led by Buddy Ingram and Roger Newton, Hope stayed close and after finally taking a brief lead, settled for a 23 all halftime score.

Returning for the second half it appeared to be a close game at first, but the B-Bruins hit plenty of foul trouble and miscues.

With Ingram hitting five points and Danny Joyce three, the B-Bruins held their ground through the third stanza, and trailed 36-34, with only one period left.

Now Texarkana hit a not streak of shooting, and completely dominated the remainder of the game.

Ingram hit 14 points, Newton picked up 10, and White had 9. Thursday night the Ladycats travel to Gurdon for the Gurdon Invitational.

Bonavena Hurts Hand, Fight Postponed

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Oscar Bonavena injured his left hand in training Tuesday and his doctor said his scheduled Feb. 12 bout with Floyd Patterson in New York would have to be postponed.

The Argentine heavyweight and he hurt the hand while hitting the sand bag in a workout at Luna Park the day before he was scheduled to leave for Puerto Rico to finish training for the Patterson bout.

Bonavena's doctor said he had a strain in the back of his hand which was not a serious injury, but which was bleeding internally and causing severe pain.

The doctor added that Bonavena would not be able to fight for at least two weeks.

New York Harry Markson, promoter of boxing at Madison Square Garden, was not immediately available for comment.

Super Bowl Controversy Continues

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The controversy over the pass that John Mackey caught for the first Baltimore touchdown in the Super Bowl—and without which they might not be pro football's champions — continued today with four Pro Bowlers unable to reach agreement on what actually occurred.

At the same time, cornerback Mel Renfro of the Dallas Cowboys, the man fingered by Super Bowl officials as the player who tipped the pass into Mackey's hands, maintained he had been falsely accused on the critical play.

The call that upset Renfro came after Dallas had taken a 6-0 lead in the second quarter. Baltimore quarterback Johnny Unitas fired a pass to receiver Eddie Hinton, who got his hands on the ball but was unable to hold it.

As it flew off his hands, Renfro and Dallas safety Cornell Green leaped for the ball, but it wound up in Mackey's hands and the tight end raced the rest of the way for a 75-yard touchdown that pulled the Colts into a 6-6 tie in a game they eventually won 16-13.

The Cowboys maintained that neither Renfro nor Green touched the ball which, under the rules, would have made Mackey's grab an illegal reception since a member of the defensive team must touch the ball before another offensive player can make a legal catch.

But the officials ruled a member of the Cowboys—later identified as Renfro—touched it, allowing the reception and the touchdown.

Millions have since seen replays of the disputed play on television and still photos in newspapers and are unable to agree on whether Renfro did tip the ball or not—and Pro Bowlers interviewed by The Associated Press found themselves in much the same position.

"It's a judgement call and it happens so fast you have to honor the officials' call," said Oakland quarterback Daryle Lamonic, "but it didn't look like he touched it."

"It was one of the most difficult calls I've ever seen," said Kansas City defensive end Jerry Mays, "but it looked like it was tipped."

"When I saw the replay it looked like he tipped it," said Chiefs' linebacker Bobby Bell. "But I've also seen still pictures—and it looks like he missed it by a foot and a half."

"At first I didn't think it was touched," said San Francisco Coach Dick Nolan. "Then when I saw the replay I saw the trajectory of the ball change. As to whether Mel hit it or not ... Mel said he didn't hit it ..."

And Renfro said Cornell Green didn't tip it either.

"I talked to him and he said he didn't touch it," Renfro said.

Even Baltimore linebacker Mike Curtis, also here for the Pro Bowl, changed his mind after seeing films of the play.

"I had some question during the game," Curtis admitted. "But when I saw the game over on television, I saw it hit Eddie's hands spinning at one revolution speed, then get changed to another speed after it was hit again."

"So I don't see how there could be any doubt."

But there still is. And probably always will be.

International Raceway Is Reorganizing

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta International Raceway froze its debts and placed itself under the Federal Bankruptcy Act Tuesday to insure running the Atlanta 500 stock car race April 4.

Judge Sidney O. Smith of the U. S. District Court for the North District of Georgia accepted a petition to place the track under the federally regulated reorganization of a corporation provision.

Under the provision, the debts of the track are placed in limbo until the race is run and some income is realized.

The track was reorganized under four new officers who have personally guaranteed between $175,000 and $200,000 to cover the purse and operating expenses for the April race.

TCU Upsets Texas Tech in the SWC

By BEN THOMAS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Joe Williams, author of Jacksonville University's Cinderella success in college basketball, goes back tonight to the scene of many of his triumphs a year ago.

It's not likely, however, that it will be a triumphant return.

Williams left Jacksonville at the end of last season—after coaching the Dolphins to a 27-2 campaign and the runnerup spot in the NCAA championships.

He took over at Furman, his alma mater, and the Southern Conference Paladins play Jacksonville tonight on the Florida team's homecourt.

"I know what kind of club they have," Williams says of the 1970-71 Dolphins, 10-2, currently ranked sixth in The Associated Press poll and now coached by Tom Wasdin, Williams' assistant last year.

The Dolphins under Williams were a free-wheeling high-scoring outfit but Wasdin expects Williams' Furman team, 7-5, "will probably play very conservatively on offense with a real good pressure defense and force us into a lot of errors."

Williams is leaving two starters, 6-foot-6 Lisco Thomas, and 6-1 Jerry Hartin at home because he says he's afraid for them to miss any time from classes.

With many schools taking breaks for midterm exams, the college basketball schedule for most of the week is light. No ranked teams were in action Tuesday night and No. 4 Penn is the only other Top Ten quintet in action tonight. The Quakers play Temple, which knocked Fordham from the unbeaten ranks last Saturday.

"Temple will be tougher the second time around," says Penn Coach Dick Harter, who's seeking his 32nd straight regular season triumph. The Quakers beat the Owls in December for the Quaker City Tourney championship.

The Owls, 5-8, have lost only to nationally ranked South Carolina in their last four starts. Coach Harry Litvak says, "his team is now living up to our potential." If we can control the boards a little better than the first game with Penn, we'll be all right." The Quakers had a 59-36 rebounding edge in the Quaker City title game.

In Tuesday night's limited action, Texas Christian, with 6-6 Eugene Kennedy getting 23 points and 24 rebounds, upset Texas Tech, preseason favorite in the Southwest Conference, 85-71. It was TCU's opening conference game but the second SWC contest for the Red Raiders.

Also in the SWC, it was Baylor 108, Texas A&M 83, and Rice 78, SMU 67.

Elsewhere, Davidson stayed off a late East Carolina rally to beat the Pirates 60-52 and take over undisputed control of first place in the Southern Conference. East Carolina had been tied with the Wildcats for first.

Oklahoma City ripped Centenary, L.A., 73-70, North Texas shaded Oklahoma Christian 80-79, Wisconsin won its first Big Ten contest, beating Northwestern 87-72, and Harvard downed Dartmouth 81-75.

Jordan Thinks Officiating Was Very Bad

Lee Roy Jordan said Tuesday night that he was unhappy with the officiating in Sunday's Super Bowl football game in which his Dallas Cowboys lost 16-13 to the Baltimore Colts.

The former Alabama star, now a Cowboy linebacker, told the Birmingham Monday Morning Quarterback Club: "We had to play against 16 men. One official made five or six calls against us himself. I was very

Palmer Going After Win at Phoenix

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Golf Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Arnold Palmer is hungry enough for a victory, and playing well enough, to make the $125,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament an addition to his tour schedule this year.

The aging champion originally hadn't included Phoenix in his playing plans for the year but:

"I'm playing well enough so that I'd like to keep going right now," he said.

Palmer hasn't won in more than a year and desperately wants another victory—and soon—to bolster his enormous pride and keep alive his position as one of the dominant figures in the game.

Condors Shake Carolina and Front Office

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Pittsburgh shook up the front office, staged a two-for-one show, then shook up Carolina and the American Basketball Association standings—and the hometown burghers still weren't very impressed.

The Condors waited for the Floridians to dispose of the New York Nets 112-107 in the first half of Tuesday night's double-header in the 13,500-seat Civic Arena, then outlasted Carolina 136-125 in the nightcap.

In other ABA action, Utah topped Indiana 116-106, Texas overwhelmed Denver 148-127 and Kentucky beat Memphis 117-110.

In the National Basketball Association, the New York Knicks edged San Diego 117-113 in overtime, Cleveland muffled Buffalo 111-79, Detroit nipped Seattle 106-102, Chicago smacked Portland 123-111, Los Angeles beat Philadelphia 134-114 and San Francisco defeated Cincinnati 116-109.

Pittsburgh, plagued by dismal attendance named Mark Binstein to the new post of operations director but stopped short of firing general manager Marty Blake, who had been expected to be a casualty in the shake-up.

Donald Bezahler of Haven Industries, which owns the team, said the future of the franchise rests with the Pittsburgh fans. "It's more the responsibility of the city than us," he said, adding he believes "there will be an improvement in attendance and the franchise will be here next year."

The "improvement" was hardly noticeable. The Condors, rarely able to get more than 1,000 spectators to watch them play at home, drew only 1,429 for the twinbill.

Pittsburgh, down by as many as 14 points, rallied behind John Brisker's 30 points to move into a fourth-place tie with Carolina in the ABA East. Joe Caldwell had 27 for the Cougars.

The two teams trail New York by one game. The Nets led most of the way before the Floridians, paced by Mack Calvin's 36-point outburst, took the lead for good with about three minutes to play. Rick Barry had 25 for New York.

Utah moved within one-half game of first-place Indiana in the West as Willie Wise hit 24 and Zelmo Beaty 23 in the Stars' balanced attack.

Rick Mount had 24 for Indiana but the Pacers, trailing 63-52 at the half, shot a meager 19 per cent from the field in the third quarter and never threatened Utah.

John Beasley and Wayne Hightower combined for 53 points to power Texas past Denver. The Chaps led 65-54 at intermission, then erupted for 83 points in the second half to demolish the Rockets, led by Larry Cannon's 27 points.

Memphis outscored Kentucky from the field but the Colonels cashed in 31 to 36 free throw attempts for the victory. Dan Issel and Louie Dampier had 26 points apiece for the winners. Jimmy Jones had 21 for the Pros.

Bobby Hull Plays to Win At All Times

By DAVE O'HARA

Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP)—Bobby Hull, the Chicago Black Hawks' "Golden Jet," plays to win at all times, whether in regular season National Hockey League games or an exhibition such as the All-Star Game.

"When you're chosen and people come to see All-Stars, you like to give them their money's worth," Hull said Tuesday night after leading the West to a 2-1 victory over the East in the 24th annual classic at Boston Garden. The West, which had tied and lost in two previous meetings with the East since the All-Star format was changed in 1969, shocked its supposedly superior rivals with a pair of goals by Chico Maki of the Hawks and Hull in the opening minutes.

Despite such outstanding stars as Gordie Howe, playing in his 22nd All-Star game, Phil Esposito, Bobby Orr, Frank Mahovlich, Jean Ratelle and other big scorers, the East couldn't catch up.

With Chicago shifted to the West Division this season, the All-Star team was bolstered by nine members of the Black Hawks. The west threw up such a close-checking game, the East managed just two shots on goal in the final period.

Trailing 2-1, the East had a golden chance to tie the game on a pair of power plays in the final 20 minutes. However, the West defense stood up, even though Coach Harry Sinden sent Pros.

out five of his former Boston Bruins—Esposito, Orr, Ken Hodge, Johnny Bucyk and Dallas Smith.

"We were like five strangers out there and here we are teammates," Esposito said in noting that they didn't have a single shot on the second power play.

"It was a good all-around effort," said West Coach Scotty Bowman, now the general manager of the St. Louis Blues. "It took me 12 Stanley Cup games and three All-Star games to finally win. This game means a lot for the West. It proves there are a lot of good young players in the league."

"I really didn't know what to do with all that talent. I'm not used to it. I just tried to open the gate right. The players did the rest. Hull was outstanding, but so were Bobby Clarke, Red Berenson, Stan Mikita, Pit Marlin, our defensemen and goalies Tony Esposito and Ernie Wakely. Everyone did a good job."

Maki, playing in his first All-Star game, put the West in front 36 seconds after the opening face-off when his long screen shot broke through goalie Ed Giacomin of the New York Rangers.

Then, with Montreal's Frank Mahovlich serving a penalty, Hull scored his fourth goal in 10 All-Star appearances at 4:38. His slap shot went off Giacomin's left leg, providing what proved to be the deciding goal.

Yvon Cournoyer of the Canadiens cashed a rebound from close-up at 6:19, but that was all the East could score.

"Gordie Howe told me that I had better stay retired when I can't win with all that talent," said Sinden, who quit hockey for private business after leading the Bruins to the Stanley Cup last May.

"However, give the West Credit," Sinden said. "They really played well. They checked and we couldn't get going. Bobby Hull played a darn good game. For our side, I thought Gil Perreault (a Buffalo rookie) was a real good one."

Although the West fore-checked and back checked, the game lacked any solid hitting. More body checks are thrown in a Bruins' Garden practice than were dished out by the All-Stars.

Referee Bill Friday set the pattern for gentlemanly conduct when he sent off Minnesota's Ted Harris for tripping Orr. Most observers felt Harris had dropped Orr with a beautiful hip check.

3 Louisiana Colleges in Cage Rankings

By JERRY ESTILL

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Three Louisiana basketball coaches are romancing the notion of having the No. 1 small college team in the nation and it's giving them different sensations.

The one who's there now is a little surprised. The one who was there last week was a little chagrined. The one who hasn't been there yet is a little perturbed.

"I had hopes, but I didn't know how hard to hope," said Scotty Robertson of Louisiana Tech after his team emerged Tuesday night as No. 1 in The Associated Press college division poll.

Robertson said he felt his team was No. 1 after it beat Southwestern Louisiana—No. 1 at the time—last week. "But I didn't know whether the voters would look at LSUNO's undefeated record and put them ahead of us."

That is exactly what Ron Greene, coach of Louisiana State University-New Orleans, thinks should have happened. His Privateers are No. 3, behind Southwestern.

"It's unbelievable," said Greene. "Not predictable, but unbelievable. Nothing would surprise me. All I can say is it (No. 1) will be ours some day because we're going to get it. That I promise."

Greene's team is 12-0 for the season and has a 17-game winning streak dating back to last season.

Beryl Shipley of Southwestern said he didn't really enjoy being No. 1 much last week since his loss to Louisiana Tech on Monday night, the day before the poll came out. "I couldn't be too enthusiastic after losing to Tech."

Shipley was philosophical about his chances of regaining the No. 1 spot. "We had better not falter," he said. "One backward step now and it's too late to plow." Southwestern is 12-2 for the season.

Tech has won 11 straight after an opening loss to Auburn and Robertson doesn't see any let-down now that his troops have achieved the top spot.

"This will push them to play harder," he said. "Our kids were quite elated at the beginning of practice Tuesday, but five minutes later we were working our tails off."

Louisiana Tech received four first place votes, LSUNO three and Southwestern Louisiana one.

Receiving one first place vote each were No. 4 Kentucky State, No. 5 Tennessee State, No. 6 Kentucky Wesleyan, No. 7 Ashland, No. 8 Fairmont State and No. 9 Stephen F. Austin.

Rounding out the Top Ten was Eau Claire.

of the American Football Conference team in Sunday's Pro Bowl game at the Coliseum.

The 41st player on the NFC squad will be Mel Farr, the Detroit Lion halfback with the long stride. The 6-foot-2, 210-pounder rejoined the team Monday and passed his physical.

Farr received enough votes to qualify for the team but it was feared an injury he suffered late in the regular season would prohibit his participation. Late last week he asked Commissioner Pete Rozelle if he could play; he said he wanted to very much.

With the approval, Farr worked out with the NFC team Monday at UCLA, his alma mater. The man named in Farr's stead, Minnesota's Dave Osborne, remains on the team.

The AFC team worked out at the University of Southern California.

Haywood Has Best Night, Still Second

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Spencer Haywood, fogged out of his day in a legal court, had his best night on a National Basketball Association court—but still came out second best in the city that gave him his start.

The 6-foot-9 former University of Detroit star who began his career with Denver of the rival American Basketball Association, then jumped last month to Seattle of the NBA, scored 24 points for the SuperSonics Tuesday night.

But it wasn't enough to keep the Detroit Pistons from pulling away to a 106-102 victory. In other NBA action the New York Knicks edged San Diego 117-113 in overtime, Cleveland stomped Buffalo 111-99, Chicago ripped Portland 123-111.

In the ABA the Floridians topped the New York Nets 112-107, Kentucky stopped Memphis 117-110, Texas overwhelmed Denver 148-127 and Utah defeated Indiana 116-106.

In Los Angeles Monday, U.S. District Court Judge Warren Ferguson granted a preliminary injunction to permit Haywood to continue playing for the Sonics. The NBA is seeking to bar him from playing for Seattle.

The league contends Judge Ferguson lacks jurisdiction and was to argue its case Tuesday in the U.S. Court of Appeals—but attorneys for Haywood and the NBA were unable to reach the court in San Francisco due to fogged-in airports. The matter was postponed one day.

The Pistons joined the rest of the NBA teams which have faced Seattle since Haywood joined the club, announcing they were playing the game under protest.

Dave Bing with 27 points and Bob Lanier with 18 led Detroit. They divided the Pistons' final 12 points to pull away from a 94-94 deadlock with 3:45 to play. Lenny Wilkens topped Seattle with 22 points.

Calvin Murphy kept San Diego in the game against the Knicks, hitting a pair of jumpers in the final minute to tie the score 103-103 after regulation time and canning two more to knot it 110-110 in the extra period before a basket by Cazzie Russell and two by Mike Riordan put New York ahead to stay.

Bill Bradley's 27 points paced New York, which snapped a four-game losing skid, and Elvin Hayes had 29 points and 35 rebounds for the Rockets, who dropped their seventh in a row. Cleveland, winning only its seventh game in 53, took advantage of 14 Buffalo turnovers in the first half to open a 22-point lead and cruised the rest of the way. John Johnson led the Cavaliers with 24 points. The Braves got 18 from Mike Davis.

Chicago all but squandered a 21-point lead before rallying in the final period to turn back the Trail Blazers. Chet Walker scored 32 for the Bulls, including seven in a flurry that kept Portland from getting closer than six points. Leroy Ellis had 27 for the losers.

Jerry West and Keith Erickson sparked Los Angeles' victory over Philadelphia. West and Erickson each scored 15 points in the first half as the Lakers bolted to a 71-54 lead.

Archie Clark of the 76ers was the game's high scorer with 38 points. West topped Los Angeles with 33 and Erickson added 29.

Four players scored 20 points or more in San Francisco's conquest of Cincinnati. Nate Thurmond, Jeff Mullins, Fritz Williams and Joe Ellis collected 92 points among them, led by Thurmond's 28.

Tom Van Arsdale of the Royals took game scoring honors with 30 points.

Beatles Not Broke, Says Attorney

NEW YORK (AP) — Allen Klein, the American manager of the Beatles, has denied an assertion in a London court that the affairs of the famed quartet are in "an appalling state."

Through counsel Tuesday, Beatle Paul McCartney filed suit seeking permission from the High Court to dissolve his partnership with the other Beatles and to force an accounting of the financial affairs of the partnership.

McCartney's lawyer, David Hirst, told the court "there probably is not enough in the kitty to meet" tax liabilities. Later Tuesday Klein commented through a U.S. spokesman, "I wish to categorically deny that the Beatles' finances are in 'an appalling state' and I wish to make it clear that the partnership is solvent and has more than sufficient net current assets to meet all income tax and surtax liabilities."

Many Bills Introduced in House

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sen. Bernice Kizer of Fort Smith introduced Tuesday a House bill to repeal a law under which women have been sentenced to the state prison for alcoholism. The law gives judges the right to sentence women to prison for indeterminate periods for habitual intoxication. Correction Commissioner Robert Sarver has urged repeal of the statute.

Sen. W. D. Moore Jr. of El Dorado introduced a bill to set up a 15-member Arkansas Scenic Rivers Committee and designate five streams as scenic rivers. The bill would make scenic rivers of Piney Creek in Pope and Johnson counties; Mulberry River in Johnson, Franklin and Crawford counties; Buffalo River in Baxter, Marion, Searcy and Newton counties; Kings River in Carroll and Madison counties; and Eleven Point River in Randolph County.

Other bills introduced in the Senate Tuesday:

—SB 105 by Sen. Guy H. "Mutt" Jones of Conway to require that all appointments requiring Senate confirmation be subject to approval of individual senators when someone from their district is appointed between legislative sessions.

—SB 96 by Sen. Oscar Alagood of Little Rock to authorize the governor to designate by proclamation the state poet laureate.

—SB 99 by Sen. Harold King of Sheridan and SB 100 by Sen. Morris Henry of Fayetteville to terminate the "minor" status of males at age 18.

—SB 108 by Sen. Clarence Bell of Parkin to require that no one may make, sell, ship, store, possess or use any explosives or blasting agent without a permit from the State Police.

—SB 97 by Sen. Max Howell of Little Rock to establish uniform salaries, ranging from $14,000 per year to $18,000 per year, for prosecuting attorneys.

Other bills introduced in the House included:

—An administration bill providing that islands formed in navigable rivers or streams will become the state's property.

—An administration bill to establish a system for the state to acquire and protect areas of unusual natural significance and unusual aesthetic value.

—An administration bill amending the state election code.

Also introduced was a resolution by Rep. W. F. Foster Sr. of England calling for the appointment of a legislative committee to meet with officials of financially troubled Arkansas AM&N College at Pine Bluff and its creditors.

The committee would negotiate the creditors' claims against the college.

UAW Talking About 4-Day Work Week

DETROIT (AP) — While reaching a tentative new contract for 110,000 production employees, Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers also have agreed to discuss the possibility of changing to a four-day work week.

The union and company said Tuesday they would create a joint six-man committee to discuss the proposal, under which 40 hours would be worked in four days with three consecutive days off, instead of the present five days work with two days off.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock said such a shortened work week might be the remedy for the "problem of absenteeism in this industry."

John Leary, Chrysler vice president for administration, said the nation's third largest automaker was willing to explore the matter, commenting, "Some management people say it stops absenteeism."

UAW Vice President Douglas Fraser, a leading union proponent of the idea, suggested that if the joint committee finds the proposal feasible, pilot tryouts could be held in one or more Chrysler plants.

No U.S. company of Chrysler's size has gone on a four-day week, although more than 50 smaller firms have done so.

The new tentative three-year contract for production workers in both the United States and Canada was reached two hours

Moon Rover Is Costing $31 Million

By NEIL BIBLER
Associated Press Writer
SEATTLE (AP) — A moon-landing vehicle due for use in a lunar Apollo flight is costing an estimated $31 million, or about 60 per cent more than the initial contract, a Boeing Co. spokesman confirms.
But the spokesman discounted today the possibility that completion of a flight-readiness lunar Rover Vehicle—LRV—might be delayed past April 1 by developmental problems.
“We expect to deliver the lunar rover on time,” the spokesman said, adding that the first flight vehicle already is under construction.
The first operational LRV was a “qualification unit” never intended for flight but put together to see whether individual portions would work properly when assembled. It was completed Dec. 14.

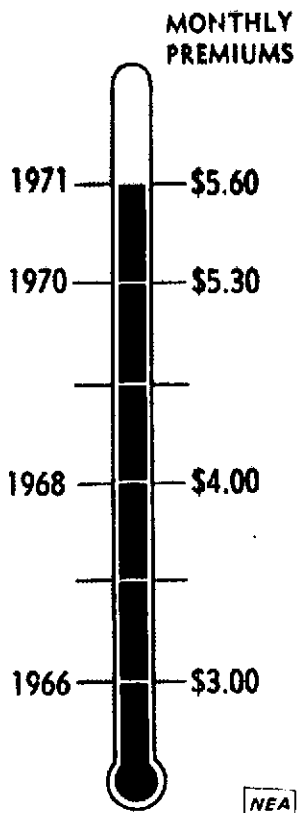

That was almost three months late, the Washington Post said in a dispatch Monday in which the $12 million additional cost of the project also was reported.
The Boeing spokesman said that although there were initial problems, testing is on schedule.
The LRV, designed to operate in lunar gravity one-sixth that of earth's, will carry two astronauts over the moon's surface as part of the Apollo 15 flight scheduled for July 25.
The cost increase over that expected when NASA awarded Boeing and General Motors Corp. the LRV contract Oct. 29, 1969, is due in large part, the Boeing spokesman said, to the high cost and number of skilled craftsmen and their overtime required to do the job in the 17 months.
The spokesman said both the skill level and the number of workers needed for the complex project and its “extremely tight” schedule were underestimated.
He said comparable programs for development of space vehicles or equipment were given 52 to 60 months for completion.
Three flight vehicles are to be made for use in the final flights of the Apollo programs.

This Dropout Tells How He Made Fortune

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Listen to the cheerful earful put out by college dropout Tom Kleppe and hear how he made a fortune, won election to Congress and came to head a $2.2 billion federal agency.
Or, on the sporting side, of his tournament hole in one, his 300 bowling game, the bonus he was offered to sign with the St. Louis Cardinals.
Stuff like that.
And, as it happens, somewhere along his travels between Kintyre, Valley City, Napoleon and Bismarck, all in North Dakota, and Washington, all in the District of Columbia, Thomas S. Kleppe has done those things.
His latest exploit, following a brief period of hardly destitute unemployment, comes at the will of Richard Nixon, who named Kleppe Monday to head the Small Business Administration.
Typically, the peppery, 51-year-old Kleppe views the challenge of pulling the pursestrings on the 4,200-man loan agency with simple, unbureaucratic and fervent language: “It's a big country. It takes a lot of dollars.”
Kleppe—pronounced Klepp— isn't yet spelling out whether that means he, and the White House, plan to ask Congress for substantial increases in the 17-year-old agency's loan authorization of $2.2 billion.
But he declares that “Somewhere along the line we can do more good, both in terms of dollars and other programs,” including technical assistance. One way, he says, is greater coordination with private lending institutions, using federal funds more as seed money than for direct loans.
And obviously he has some departures from the policies of retiring administrator Hilary Sandoval in mind when he says “I have great respect for the wisdom of Congress, and when it's given the possibility of doing more to help minority enterprises, and small businesses generally.”

Guam was ceded to the United States by Spain after the Spanish-American War.

MEDICARE ON THE RISE

Medicare monthly premiums paid by elderly persons to cover doctor bills will have nearly doubled July 1 when the rate is increased to $5.60. Chart shows raises since 1966 when the plan started with a $3 monthly premium. A Health, Education and Welfare Department spokesman said increases are necessary to meet physicians' rising fees.

U.S. Spending More on Drugs Than Needed

By MARGARET SCHERF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The government spent twice as much in 1969 for drugs it needed as it did in 1967, yet often failed to take advantage of cheap, quantity buying, Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats said today.

In 1967 some $514 million in federal funds was spent on drugs, Staats said, and in 1969 the figure had risen to $975 million. A large portion of the increase came under medicare and Medicaid programs, where drug expenditures rose from $350 million to $750 million during the period, he said in prepared remarks.

Staats said some government agencies, particularly the Veterans Administration and the Defense Department, “have not taken advantage of savings through higher quantity drug procurements.”
“In one case,” he added, “we took 68 drug items over a two-year period and found that purchases made outside quantity procurements were 63 per cent higher than those purchased in quantity.”

Staats testified before the Senate monopoly subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., investigating federal drug purchases.

Monday, the committee was told of tests sponsored by the Food and Drug Administration that showed nearly 15 per cent of some 16,000 drugs checked were ineffective. And another 35 per cent were found only “possibly effective.”

Dr. Charles C. Edwards said tests conducted by the National Academy of Science showed only 19.1 per cent of the drugs tested to be effective without qualification.

Defends Right to Sell Arms to S. Africa

SINGAPORE (AP) — Thirty British Commonwealth leaders listened quietly today as Prime Minister Edward Heath defended Britain's right to sell naval weapons to South Africa, but most remained unconvinced and told him so.
Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau of Canada said the discussion was “rational and unemotional, orderly, with no one losing his temper.” We wanted to hear the basic views of those who had things to say, and we're going to carry on.”
Heath has faced almost unanimous opposition at the Singapore Commonwealth conference going into its second week. At least three African nations threatened before the summit to quit the Commonwealth if Heath completes the sale he says is necessary to protect Indian Ocean shipping lanes from the Soviet navy.

Russellville Man Is New ESD Director

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Merle Lemley, 56, a Russellville real estate broker, will replace Mrs. Leona Troxell as administrator of the state Employment Security Division, it was learned Monday.

HOPE (ARK.) STAR, Printed by Offset

Lemley said in a telephone interview Monday night that he met with Gov. Dale Bumpers earlier in the day and it was his understanding he would assume the post Feb. 1.
Mrs. Troxell, who reportedly will resign from her job effective Jan. 31, would not comment except to say that there was a “strong rumor” that Lemley was in line to become head of the ESD.
She said she had never met Lemley, but had heard his name mentioned.
Jim LaMonica, an aide to Bumpers, said he did not know anything about the appointment of Lemley. Bumpers could not be reached for comment.
Lemley, who is also a member of the governor's Constitutional Advisory Committee, tee, said he met with Bumpers briefly Monday afternoon to discuss details of the appointment.

He said he first met Bumpers at a breakfast in Russellville last June.
“I told Dale that if there was any way I could help him, I would,” Lemley said.
Lemley became active in Bumpers' campaign and was named head of the Pope County “Boosters for Bumpers.” He was later named as Bumpers' Pope County campaign chairman.
A native of Atkins, Lemley said that following World War II, he gained experience in working with retirement systems and was named president of Pensions and Groups Consultants, Inc., of Cincinnati, Ohio.
He said he returned to Arkansas three years ago to enter the real estate business at Russellville.

Lemley attended college at Arkansas Tech and the University of Kansas. He served in the Army during World War II.
He is married and he and his wife, also named Merle, have two sons and a daughter. He said he would spend all of the time that was necessary in Little Rock to properly function as head of the ESD.

Ulcer Is End Product Of Mind and Emotions

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Did you know that the amount of acid digestive juice manufactured by the stomach is influenced by your brain? This is why the brain and emotions can induce ulcers. A nerve (vagus) from the brain to the stomach, stimulates the stomach to manufacture hydrochloric acid and pepsin (used to digest meat and other proteins).

The smell of fresh-baked bread, the sight of a steak just off the grill or thinking about your favorite dessert sets off a signal to stimulate the flow of digestive juice. The stomach may produce over a cupful of acid-pepsin juice while anticipating food. Well over a quart of acid-pepsin juice is formed each day.

An attractive table, a roaring fire in the fireplace, soft music and good companions all enhance the flow of digestive juice or "whets the appetite." An unattractive table or unappealing food has the opposite effect. The gourmet is right when he insists on the little touches that go along with food to enhance the appetite as well as the enjoyment.

The emotions affect the stomach through the vagus nerve. With sudden fear or anger the stomach lining becomes pale because of decreased blood flow and the flow of digestive juices slows or stops. The opposite effects are observed if anger, hostility or anxiety are prolonged. It is the persistent, long-term stress that causes an excess flow of acid juices.

The stomach becomes a mirror of the mind and emotions.

Food in the stomach increases the flow of digestive juices. Many fluids pass almost directly through the stomach to the intestine. Solids accumulate in the center of the stomach. The muscles in the wall of the stomach contract in a rhythmic fashion, squeezing the solids against the outlet portion of the stomach, then relaxing and squeezing again. This creates a churning mechanism.

No solids are allowed to pass into the intestine. Once the food is in a liquid or semifluid state the valve at the outlet of the stomach opens just enough to slowly empty the stomach contents into the first portion of the small intestine—the duodenum.

Certain foods inhibit the stomach from emptying. A very fatty meal may remain in the stomach for hours. Proteins are emptied more rapidly but not so rapidly as carbohydrates. Cold food slows the action of the stomach.

Stimuli from the brain that cause the flow of digestive juice also stimulate the stomach to more rapid and forceful contractions. Thus, both the flow of digestive juice and the contents of the stomach are influenced by the brain.

As long as the food remains in the stomach, the small intestine is protected from the acid semifluid material. The stomach that empties rapidly is constantly squirting its acid contents out against the inner wall of the duodenum where most ulcers are located. Factors that influence how much acid digestive juice is formed and how rapidly the stomach empties are very important in causing ulcers.

Opening lead—♠ Q

Back in the early '30s the late Ely Culbertson ran across an interesting play he proceeded to name, "The coup without a name."

The play will be found in many bridge books. It also has been christened, "The coup en passant."

The basic idea of the play is to force an opponent to either waste a trump trick while you discard a loser or to let you make an otherwise losing trump.

South wins the club lead in dummy and plays a trump to his ace. East shows out and South is faced with the loss of three trump tricks and a diamond. He sees some possibility of an end play against East, but as you can see the end play won't come off. West holds the diamond king.

Nevertheless, if South just tries to make his contract he will bring it home. He takes his ace of trumps, leads a club to dummy and ruffs a club. One trump is in. Then he enters dummy with a high spade and leads dummy's last club. East can't afford to ruff and discards a spade. South has made one trump en passant.

He enters dummy with the other high spade and leads a third spade. East discards a diamond and South has scored his second trump en passant.

Back to dummy with the ace of diamonds for a lead of the last spade. At this point in the proceedings South has scored six tricks with aces and kings and three tricks with small trumps.

East can trump or not. Either way, South is sure to make a 10th trick and his contract. He has harpooned poor East three times.

King Deposited in Swiss Banks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The last king of Yugoslavia deposited $2 million in Swiss banks, an attorney says, but a legal dispute may prevent the money from being released.

The will of King Peter II was admitted for probate Monday in Superior Court. He died Nov. 3 in Denver, Colo., at 47.

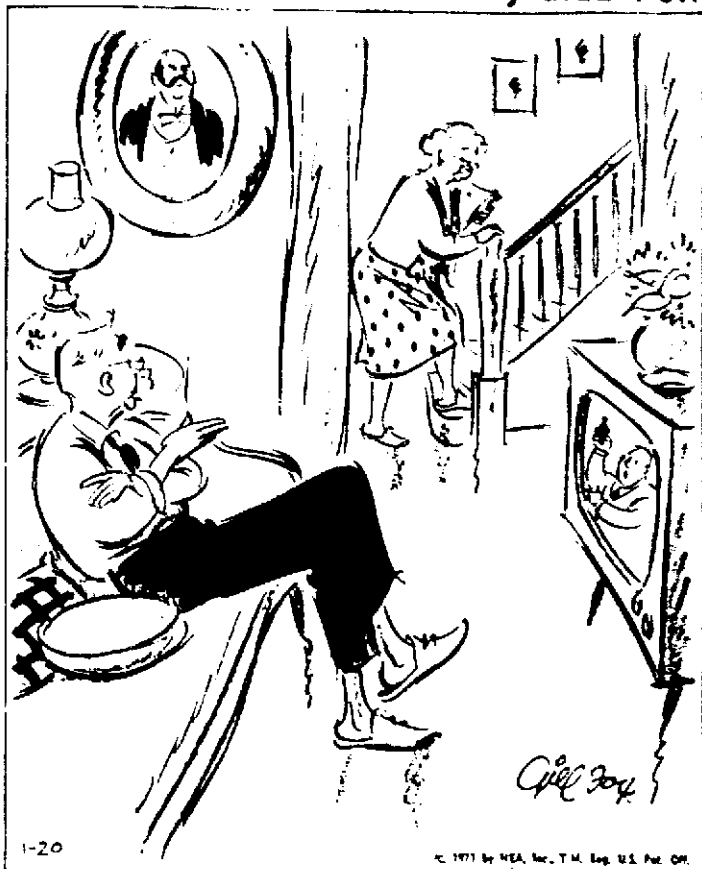

Mitzi Lowe, friend of the ex-monarch, is executor of the will. Mrs. Lowe's attorney, Sam Silverstein, said Swiss bankers would not let the ex-king withdraw the money because they did not recognize him as head of state.

We would like to take this means of expressing our thanks to all our friends for your kind expressions of sympathy during the illness and death of our husband and father, Irvin A. Betts.

We especially want to thank Dr. James W. Branch and the entire nursing staff of the Branch hospital for their untiring efforts on his behalf.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Irvin Betts

REORGANIZATION

tion from taking effect until the legislature also enacted a comprehensive state employee merit system, which Bumpers plans to propose.

Rep. B. D. "Doug" Brandon of Little Rock accused Moore of trying to "gut" the bill by tying it to a merit system. But Moore said the reorganization measure would give the governor authority that, if abused, could jeopardize the jobs of 7,000 to 9,000 state employees not covered by a merit system. He said he wanted to protect the employees.

Moore said he did not think Bumpers would abuse the authority, but he said future governors might.

"You stand to establish one of the biggest political machines ever known in Arkansas," Moore said before the 18-68 vote on his amendment.

Also defeated, on a vote of 15-63, was an amendment by Rep. Jimmie Don McKissack of Star City that would provide that the state education commissioner serve at the pleasure of the state Board of Education.

The commissioner is now appointed by the board and serves at its pleasure, but under the bill the governor would have the power both to reject the board's choice and to dismiss the commissioner.

The state Board of Education has objected to this feature of the bill.

At a three-hour hearing held Tuesday morning by the State Agencies Committee, Board Chairman John Cole said that unless the legislature enacts a companion comprehensive merit system the governor could control all employees of the Education Department and reinstate a "spoils system" that he said existed before the legislature restructured the department in 1941 to take it out of politics.

The House also defeated amendment by Rep. Cecil Alexander of Heber Springs that would have left the surplus property program in the Education Department rather than transfer it to the proposed new Department of Finance and Administration, one of 13 principal departments that would be created by the bill through a reorganization of more than 60 state agencies, boards and commissions.

When Alexander's amendment came up, Rep. Gean McDonald of Sheridan rose to oppose it, saying "Picky, picky, packs... if you can't beat the bill, you pick it to pieces." The amendment failed 18-67.

A fourth amendment offered by Rep. Charles Boyce of Danville would have changed the method of transferring the state agency Board to the proposed new Commerce Department. It failed 30-50.

In discussing his amendment, McDonald said the legislature would pass the bill "would

The Rev. Norris Steele, pastor of First Methodist Church, was the luncheon speaker at the Lions Club Monday at Town & Country.

The Rev. Mr. Steele said that contrary to some lay opinions, preachers are human, subject to the same frustrations, temptations and weaknesses as anyone else, and went on to tell of many humorous experiences during his pastorage in which his flock expected him to be some king of supermen who remained untouched by everyday problems.

Of course, there are joys that are unique to the pastorage and the talk laid the groundwork for a better understanding between pastor and flock. Mr. Steele's talk was timely and enjoyed by the group. Lion Hubert Thrash arranged the program.

give Bumpers, in the first few weeks of his administration, more power than former Gov. Orval E. Faubus was able to obtain in 12 years in office.

About 180 persons attended the State Agencies Committee hearing in the old Supreme Court chamber at the Capitol. Only one of the 24 speakers, Arkansas American party secretary E. L. Luttrell of Malvern, opposed the bill in its entirety. Luttrell said the plan vested too much power in the governor.

Other speakers opposed provisions of the bill. Included were provisions on the education commissioner serving at the pleasure of the governor, transferring the state Plant Board to the proposed new Department of Commerce and placing the Library Commission in the state Education Department.

Emmett Smith, president of Crowley's Ridge Junior College at Paragould, said he was not opposed to reorganization, but he suggested some of the "radical changes" in the Bumpers bill should be referred to the voters by initiated act or a proposed constitutional amendment.

"I think that he (Bumpers) may have misread some mandates," Smith said.

Atty. Gen. Ray H. Thornton Jr. spoke in behalf of the measure, saying the bill was a "good plan" that would eliminate duplication in state government functions and give the governor authority commensurate with his responsibility.

John Elrod of Rison, representing the Arkansas Wood Products Association, said Arkansas governors had more responsibility and less authority than their predecessors of any other state. He said the reorganization would give the governor adequate authority.

John P. Galt of Little Rock, a lawyer, said reorganization would allow the state to offer more services at the same time

Samuel L. Devine of Ohio as GOP conference chairman.

Democratic Whip Boggs won a five-way race for majority leader during a marathon closed-door caucus in the House chamber Tuesday which lasted eight hours with no break for lunch.

Capturing a substantial North-West vote and holding many Southern votes, Boggs was elected on the second ballot with 140 votes to 88 for Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona and 17 for Rep. B.F. Sisk of California.

Reps. Wayne L. Hays of Ohio and James G. O'Hara of Michigan dropped out of the race after poor showings on the first ballot.

Reform candidate Udall pledged to support Albert and Boggs, said the five-way majority leader campaign had left no bitterness and said of Boggs: "he has the credentials of a national leader and that's why he won."

Former Majority Leader Albert was nominated speaker—which assures his election to the job by the full House Thursday by a 220 to 20 vote with token opposition from Rep. John Conyers Jr. of Michigan, the first black speaker candidate of modern times.

Conyers said he entered the speaker race because Albert refused to endorse his drive to strip all five Mississippi Democrats, including powerful Rules Committee Chairman William M. Colmer, of their seniority.

Conyers lost, 111 to 55, his attempt to strip seniority on grounds the five were not members of the biracial Loyal Democratic Party of Mississippi, recognized by the 1968 presidential nominating convention.

The biggest surprise of the Democratic caucus came on the first vote when two-term Caucus Chairman Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois, expected to win routine re-election, was unseated by Rep. Olin E. Teague of Texas, 155 to 91.

Udall appeared to speak for a consensus when he said Teague won because of his popularity among House Democrats and because of a general feeling the job should change hands after two terms.

ward. The marines called in Vietnamese air force jets to bomb and strafe the enemy, and their headquarters in Saigon said 32 of the enemy were killed. South Vietnamese casualties were four killed and 10 wounded.

A 15,000-man South Vietnamese-Cambodian task force has been trying for a week to reopen the highway to relieve a shortage of gasoline, fuel oil and other imported commodities in Phnom Penh. Associated Press correspondent Holger Jenyen reported from the Cambodian capital that it was believed the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong still controlled about 10 miles of the 115-mile-long road.

The heaviest fighting reported today raged along Route 7, in eastern Cambodia near the town of Kandol, about 60 miles northeast of Phnom Penh. The Saigon government said North Vietnamese forces slammed 300 mortar shells into the night bivouac of a battalion of 400 South Vietnamese troops and followed with a ground attack, triggering a five hour battle.

Flare ships illuminated the night skies for artillery blasting the enemy, and a spokesman claimed 56 North Vietnamese were killed. Saigon's losses were six killed and 12 wounded, the spokesman said.

Southeast of Phnom Penh, 400 South Vietnamese rangers clashed with enemy forces outside the Cambodian town of Kompong Trach, 10 miles from the Vietnamese border. The rangers reported 31 of the enemy killed, along with one South Vietnamese soldier. Another South Vietnamese was wounded.

An estimated 500 Cambodian troops were reported battling North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces 20 miles southeast of Phnom Penh today, and bombers were called in to attack the Communists.

it cut the overhead of operating government.

Gill, Elrod and Thornton all were delegates to the state Constitutional Convention that drafted the proposed new constitution that was defeated in last year's general election. The proposed charter had contained a provision that would have consolidated state agencies into no more than 20 departments.
